

The LAUGHING SIDE OF LIFE

LIKE OUR GEORGE DEWEY'S.

(In the primary grade, School No. 16, Tokoyo.)
 "How old are you, little boy?"
 "Six years old last June, teacher."
 "What's your name?"
 "T. O. Kamarara."
 "What's your full name?"
 "Togo Oyama Kamarara."

RUBBERS VS. RUBBERS.

Every time the neighbors heard Percy put rubber tires on his cart and pneumatic shoes on his horse, Percy's horse stop they had a look—ce.

PATROLMAN CHUMPEN, THICKHEAD.

"A summer hair cut may not make a man look any too good, but by thunder, it makes him feel all right. I'll never carry a big bunch of hair around again in hot weather."

"Well, as I live, if there ain't old Sticky-finger Peter, the pickpocket, just out of the pen. I guess I'll run you in for the good of the public. You're too strong to be at large."

"Oh, you can't fool me. You've got the regular penitentiary hair cut. Why, you haven't been out of prison ago. 13 hours. None of your talk, or I'll use my club on you. Come on, now, and be lively, too."

"Judge, I'm a barber and I cut this man's hair myself, not two hours ago." "Prisoner, you're discharged. Patrolman Chumpen, you haven't got brains enough to be a constable."

MRS. ENDSEATHOGG'S DEFEAT.

He wouldn't move for an old lady. He forced an old man to climb

Then along came a large, heavy

And Mr. Hogg got what he needed.

SHOPPING IS SUCH A RESPONSIBILITY.

This diagram shows how busy Jones' wife was from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

And just as she arrived home, tired and worn out by her task, a wagon backed up and a boy delivered all her purchases—all except those she carried home herself.

IT HAPPENS SO OFTEN.

"You'll have plenty of time to catch the car," says your wife, as you start for the station.

And then you have to Lou Dillon for a block because you didn't hurry.

It's a great struggle, but you make it, though you risk your life in doing so.

And the conductor tells you the car turns off at the barn instead of going to the station.

ISN'T IT ALWAYS SO?

Corporal Freddie Feathers, of the Washington Fencibles, looms up like a giant (in the girls' eyes) at the military reception.

And he has shriveled like a shrimp when they see him back at work.

IT ALWAYS TURNS OUT THIS WAY.

At 7 p. m.
 "By George, that is a fine baby, Smith. Such a good natured little fellow."

"Best natured baby I ever saw. My wife just drops him in the crib, turns out the light, and we don't hear a sound until 5 the next morning. We don't know what it is for him to cry after he goes to bed."

At 8 p. m.
 "That kid's lungs are in fine shape, Smith. I never heard such yelling from a baby."

"I don't know what's got into the child. I'm afraid he's sick, for he don't cry like that very often. In fact, I don't think he's cried like that at night in six months. Generally he drops off to sleep without a sound."

At 9 p. m.
 "John, I wish you'd come up stairs and help me. And bring up that long bottle on the left hand shelf in the pantry—the bottle with the white label. I'm sure the child has a pain or he wouldn't cry so hard."

At 10 p. m.
 "I hope you'll excuse me for being gone so long, Jones, but there's something the matter with the boy. Do you really have to go? Well, come again, and we'll have a quiet smoke. I can promise you it will never happen again."
